WHEN YOU ORDER EARLY WE BOTH GAIN

NEW YEAR'S GREETINGS to all old customers, new customers and friends in general throughout the United States. In the sixteen years I have been growing and selling Gladiolus Bulbs I have made many personal friends and gained the confidence of many satisfied customers. Once in a while an error or misunderstanding will creep into the transaction, which I have tried to adjust to the entire satisfaction of the customer if possible. When too much cash has been sent with orders or orders have arrived too late in the season to fill, a refund has been promptly made. However while I try my best to have everything satisfactory including very low prices, I cannot guarantee every bulb I sell to blossom. I do guarantee to deliver to you good sound, up-to-size bulbs, grown on light sandy loam and stored at a temperature averaging below 40 degrees F.

THIRIPS

Thrips are a very small insect not a disease, that blights gladiolus buds causing them to turn brown and fail to open good blooms. My bulbs are free from Thrips as I do not have them in my gardens. However they can easily infest your garden from a neighboring garden where they have not been controlled. Do not throw away your bulbs because of thrip. A farmer would not throw away his potatoes because he had bugs on the vines. Thrips are easily eliminated. My new cultural directions included in each 1937 shipment tell how.

To New Hampshire Customers

If a sales tax should be passed by the Legislature it will have to be added to the list prices given here.

Size of Bulbs

When comparing my prices compare sizes also. Some unresponsible dealers in bulbs who do not grow bulbs themselves and never have, offer "100 Large Flowered Gladiolus Bulbs" at a very low price and fill the order with bulbs around % inch in diameter. When they bloom the flowers may be large, but the bulbs sent are not even up to medium size. One concern last year mailed 100 bulblets for bulbs!

LARGE Bulbs are 1½ inch and over, MEDIUM bulbs % to 1½ inch.

LARGE bulbs make the best and largest blooms, also bloom a little earlier. Medium size bulbs should give a very fair sized spike and flower. Small sized bulbs will sometimes give a very small blossom but cannot be depended upon to flower the first year planted. Of course bulbs should increase in size somewhat every year, though it is hard to have some sorts develop into large bulbs.

Visit our Garden the coming season from Aug. 1 to around Sept. 20, or when frost takes them. We had visitors last year from South America, Texas and about every state east of the Mississippi.

Bulblets

Can furnish bulblets from group No. 3 and Special lots only. Bulbs are so low in price in Groups No. 1 and No. 2 that it will not pay you to bother with them as it takes about three years to get good blooming bulbs from bulblets.

WHY BUY GLADIOLUS BULBS?

Who does not like flowers? What is nicer to take to a sick friend than a beautiful bouquet of gladiolus? What can you grow more easily in a small space than glads? The bulbs are good for many years if given the minimum of care. What other flower can give you the assortment of colors and shades? They are all beautiful whether large flowered, medium size or small flowered. The smaller ones have the more delicate shadings as a rule. Buy glads for Beauty.

SPECIAL RECENT INTRODUCTIONS

Why do new varieties of gladiolus cost more is frequently asked. It takes about seven or eight years to develop and acquire a stock of a new variety grown from hybridized seed. Out of 10,000 seedlings there may possibly be one that is worth naming and putting on the market. I will agree with anyone that there have been many kinds introduced and sold to growers and the general glad fanciers that should have been thrown in the scrap heap at the start. I try out many kinds every year that I do not list afterwards if they do not come up to my standard of a good gladiolus. When a variety is first placed on the market the original grower must get enough to pay him for at least part of the cost of production, as the stock usually increases rapidly when it gets in general production and soon sells at a very small profit or in many cases for less than the cost of growing.

Mother Machree, Mary Jane and Lacinatus were first marketed by their introducers at $100 per bulb. Note prices now. It's the law of supply and demand. The following varieties I believe are worth the price quoted here which is the average market price quoted by the responsible growers of Gladiolus for the season of 1937.

In common with most bulb dealers who actually grow their own bulbs I include some extra bulbs with each order. Suggest what particular color you are interested in and if your order is large enough to warrant I will enclose it gratis. Remember the larger the order the more extras. Do not expect many extras on small orders. My aim is to please in all cases as far as possible.

PLEASE DO NOT—

—send loose coin or currency by mail.
—plant glads in the shade of trees and near robust shrubs.
—plant glads less than four inches deep or over six inches.
—delay in sending in your order.

TIGRIDIAS

Last summer I planted for the first time a bed of Tigridias, sometimes called the Tiger Flower or Mexican Shell Flower. They began blooming in July and kept it up until frost got them. Well, you should have heard visitors to my garden rave over them. While they are not of any value as a cut flower, they are a rival to the tulip as a bedding bulb. The culture is the same as for gladiolus. Colors are spotted red and orange assorted and grow about two feet tall. Bulbs are not plentiful as yet. Prices are 3 for 45c, 6 for 80c, 12 for $1.25. Post paid. Better order early on these, supply limited.

DAHLIAS

Dahlias have been developed into a wonderful large flowered plant of the most gorgeous colors imaginable, nothing like the small magenta shades grown a few years ago. Dahlias will not be shipped until after March 1st, as it is not a good plan to divide the clumps too early. Orders for $1 or more postpaid or with other bulbs if total order in one shipment amounts to at least $1.
